Charming and poetic place developed thanks to its central position on the bank of Lake Como, along the road that the Romans opened in the 59 B.C., from NOVUM COMUN towards the Alps.

*Around the XVI century began a period of prosperity, with the construction of some of the most beautiful and luxurious palaces, which still exist nowadays.
These buildings all belonged to wealthy European families, and were built along a road which was later named "Regina", due to their importance.*

The French Revolution and the Napoleonic War led to the decline of many of these families and the passage of these palaces to the rich Milanese Lords, who used them as country residences.
